

Theodora and I are twins.

We are the same height, have the same colour hair and the same freckles on our faces, but we are not at all alike.

But we do have something in common: our most favourite thing among all our favourite things has always been baking.