In Savannah Village, there were only four weeks left until the annual Bananafest celebration.

All the animals in the village were running around excitedly: the festival was a great opportunity to showcase their best skills.

But in the middle of all the hustle and bustle, Frankie the monkey was scratching her head, undecided. She didn't know what her skills were... and it was time to find out! "But how?" she wondered, until she came up with a solution. "I'll go and see what the other animals are doing!"

The first animal she saw was Rich the ostrich, who was practising a beautiful melody on the piano. When Frankie saw her, Frankie wanted to learn to play as well.
